LOMIKO TECHNOLOGIES APPOINTS RON MERTENS OF GRAPHENE-INFO.COM TO THE BOARD OF ADVISORS

November 3, 2015

TSX-V: LMR

Lomiko Metals Inc.'s its 100-per-cent-owned subsidiary has appointed Ron Mertens as an adviser to Lomiko Technologies. Mr. Mertens joins Michael Pesner on the advisory board.

"Based in Israel, Mr. Mertens has successfully launched a primary hub for graphene news and tracks companies in the industry," stated A. Paul Gill, chief executive officer. "Mr. Mertens will help shape the graphene investment strategy at Lomiko Technologies."

Mr. Mertens is Graphene-Info's owner and editor in chief, and a graphene market analyst that spent years gathering knowledge and building lasting relationships with other industry professionals. He received a BSc in computing science, statistics and operations research, and worked as a software engineer for P-Cube, which was acquired by Cisco Systems. A software engineer by trade, he started his technology blogging business in 2004 with aims of starting truly unique and up-to-date bodies of knowledge that he could share with the world. In that regard, he developed and published The Graphene Handbook, an accessible and straight-forward guide to the graphene industry, which is available on his site.

Graphene-Info, established in 2009, follows the graphene market and industry, and is considered the Web's leading graphene resource with tens of thousands of monthly readers, as well as a number of tailored services and products for the graphene industry. Among Mr. Mertens's additional blogs are the successful OLED-Info that's focused on OLED displays and lighting, as well as several other technological blogs that deal with innovative materials and technologies.
